DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on March 10, 2003 has been entered.
2. Claims 2, 6-10, and 14-17 have been cancelled.
3. Claims 1 and 13 are currently pending.
4. The declaration of Timur Momol, filed March 12, 2003, has been considered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Momol et al. (Phytopathology (June 1999), vol. 89, no. 6, pp. S54) in view of US Pat. No. 4,780,471.

Applicant has amended the claims to include ethyl alcohol and a detergent in composition with the thymol. Momol does not teach using these ingredients in combination with the thymol. However, US '471 teaches that ethyl alcohol and surfactants are known carriers for products that are applied to plants (see column 7, lines 1-18). A detergent is a type of surfactant. This reference shows it was known in the art at the time of the invention to use ethyl alcohol and detergents in compositions that are applied to plants. Therefore, a person of ordinary skill in the art would be motivated to use these carriers in combination with the thymol taught by Momol.

Applicant's arguments regarding the original 103 rejection over Momol are fully considered in light of the new claim amendments. Applicant argues that Momol does not teach using the thymol on field tomatoes, only on greenhouse tomatoes. Applicant contends that a person of ordinary skill in the art would have no way of knowing whether the treatment would actually work in the field. However, a person of ordinary skill in the art would be able to determine without undue experimentation if the method taught by Momol on greenhouse tomatoes would be successful in the field. In addition, the artisan of ordinary skill would clearly understand the desirability of using this product to suppress Ralstonia associated wilt on field tomatoes because the reference clearly states that the wilt is a problem in field grown tomatoes. Therefore, Momol is still considered to render the claimed invention obvious.

6. No claims are allowed.
